A Global Company Servicing at a Local Level

Who is...

SDI • TDI • ERDI

From its humble beginning in 1994 through today, the group of training agencies: Scuba Diving International (SDI), Technical Diving International (TDI), and Emergency Response Diving International (ERDI) have formed one of the largest diving certification agencies in the World – International Training.

With 24 Regional Offices servicing more than 100 countries, the company today far exceeds the original vision the founders had when they conceived the idea on a napkin, sitting at a kitchen table in the early 1990's.

TDI: Technical Diving International

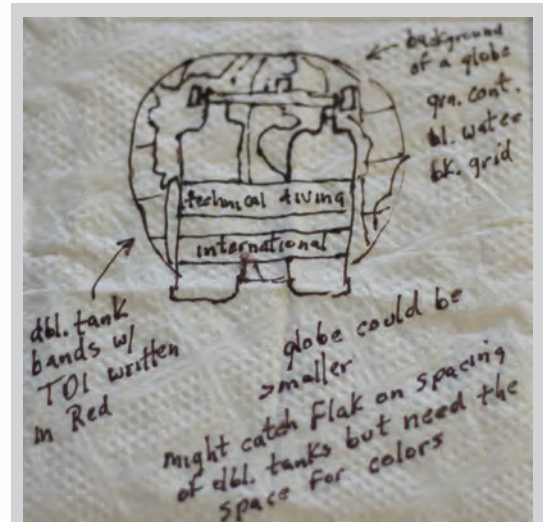

Was one of the first agencies of its kind. It's focus was, and still is, on providing training materials and education for specialized diving situations ranging from Nitrox to Closed Circuit Rebreathers, and overhead environments such as caves and wrecks. TDI remains the largest agency around the world that offers training in technical diving.

SDI: Scuba Diving International

In 1998, TDI could no longer be held back from the demand to create a sport diving division – thus SDI was born. The driving force behind this expansion was dive instructors in the field valued dealing with an agency that listened to them and created programs that are very profitable because they are tailored to the way today's diver wants to learn to dive.

ERDI: Emergency Response Diving International

With the membership now happy with their options for both sport and technical dive training through SDI and TDI, they continued to ask for more specialized training in public safety diving, and so the new millennium brought with it ERDI. ERDI is the only training program supported by a major certification agency that caters exclusively to public safety diving. Throughout the years ERDI has created programs and trained highly established dive teams including fire departments, police departments, and various federal agencies.

The Vision of TDI started at a kitchen table and the logo was finalized on this napkin.

20 YEARS OF INNOVATION

- First to present Nitrox training in a simple format that required no dives to complete.
- First to present an advanced wreck program teaching overhead diving techniques outside the cave diving format.
- First to make Trimix training accessible to recreational divers.
- First to have a technical divemaster certification.

- First to allow you to teach “as they dive,” permitting students to learn to dive utilizing a Personal Dive Computer (PDC).
- First to drop the requirement for beginning divers to learn cumbersome tables, while giving you the option to teach tables...or not!
- First to lower the age requirement for Open Water to 10 years old.
- First insured sport-level Solo Diver program.
- First to create an online open water training course and make it mainstream – eLearning is now an industry standard.
- First to present online specialties such as wreck, computer Nitrox, deep and navigation.
- First to make certification cards available directly through your participating Dive Center with In-Store Card Printing.
- First to offer online leadership programs including Divemaster, Assistant Instructor and Open Water Scuba Diver Instructor. The online academics and preparation for these programs give you more and better “in-water” quality time!

- First to provide instructors and facilities standards underwritten and supported by appropriate insurance.
- First to present programs which are OSHA and NFPA compliant.
- First to offer training through a true network of professional facilities.
- Education for WHOLE team through three-part OPS training (Awareness, Operations and Technician).

Our crossover application is tailored to meet the needs and expectations of the dive professional and dive retailer.

When SDI was launched in 1998, it created quite a buzz in the dive industry. Our programs embraced the concept of making SCUBA training fun, efficient, and technologically current. Today, while other training agencies scramble to keep up with our new methods of teaching, SDI's innovative concept and programs continue to grow in popularity with our students, professionals and facilities.

Recognizing the professional level at which facilities do business, we want to make your transition to becoming an SDI/TDI/ERDI facility as easy as possible.

It is our business to promote your business. At International Training we have built our success by listening to our customers. The success of your business is very important to us and we will do everything we can to ensure it succeeds.

Global Referral

Our Global Referral Program currently allows divers from all around the world to continue their education without having to worry about "agency politics". We have created the Global Referral Program so that resorts and instructors from other agencies listed with our referral program can sign off on our diver's open water dives while maintaining their SDI rating. Don't turn away business and don't have your business turned away. Join our Global Referral Program today.

Dive Center Designations

Numerous benefits and price deals are provided to your facility, depending on the facility's designation. The higher your designation, the more you will see in savings and returns with every purchase of SDI, TDI or ERDI materials that you make.

Please review our crossover applications and take advantage of the great opportunities that we have to offer your facility and instructors. If you have any questions about this process, please do not hesitate to contact your local regional manager or contact headquarters directly. We're here to make your crossover process simple, easy, and hassle free. We look forward to you joining our team.
